To Have Park And Playground On Wurts Street

Board of Public Works Decides to Purchase Ground of Cornell Estate for $10,000—Sewers, Streets and Other Matters at Busy Session.

The board of public works Tuesday evening decided to accept the offer of the Cornell Estate to sell to the city the plot of ground on Wurts street which the board will use for a city park and playground. The price to be paid is $10,000.

The question of using this plot of ground for a city park was talked over by the board at a previous meeting and Commissioner George F. Chandler was appointed a committee of one to wait on the Cornell Estate and see if the land could not be leased for park purposes. At that time the offer was made to sell the land to the city for the sum stated.

At Hasbrouck Park.

The question of better lighting and sanitation at Hasbrouck Park was left to the park committee with power to have more lights installed and toilets erected. The board also decided to renew the lease for part of the park which is owned by the Newark Lime and Cement Company.

Rapid Hose Block Party.

The request of the Rapid Hose Company for permission to hold a block party on Hone street, between Spring and West Pierpont streets, was granted. The date will be fixed later.

Bridge Signal O. K.

The board decided to accept the traffic signal now installed at the entrance to the Rondout Creek Bridge on Abeel street with the addition of a large signal gong to be attached.

The traffic signal which is being tried out at North Front and Wall streets is not satisfactory and will be removed and a signal on a pedestal will be tried out at that point.

Board Denied Request.

The request of the Epworth League of Trinity M. E. Church for permission to install a temporary stand at Academy Green on some fair Saturday night to sell ice cream, candy and soda water, was denied.

Waste Committee Appointed.

President Charles A. Lasher, of the Chamber of Commerce, sent in a communication asking that a committee be appointed to study the auto traffic situation in the city as suggested at the public meeting held recently at the city hall to discuss the question. The letter was filed. Later in the meeting Commissioner Chandler's plan for traffic regulation was adopted. The plan will be found elsewhere in The Freeman.

Wants Bus Terminal Sign.

C. E. Wonderly, chairman of the bus terminal committee, sent in a communication asking that a suitable sign be erected so that passengers alighting from a train could see it and be directed to the bus terminal. As the letter did not state which bus terminal, it was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren to take up the question with Mr. Wonderly.

More Street Signs.

A request from S. B. Thing Company to erect a sign in front of the store at No. 31 North Front street was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren with power.

Similar action was taken on the request of The Colonial at 308 Clinton avenue, and Mrs. Albert Kreisig of 769 Broadway.

City Has No Authority.

J. Siller of 22 East Union street applied for permission to install a gas tank and pump in front of his garage. Under the decision of the courts the city has not power to grant such applications and the petition was denied.

A Lowland Garage.

Peter Strubel asked permission to erect a six stall garage on the Darrow property on the lowlands in the First ward. The request was granted.

Sewer Ordinances Adopted.

The board adopted ordinances for the building of sewers in the Boulevard and Greenkill avenue; the Clifton avenue and Stephan street sewer ordinance as amended; a sewer in Manor Place; a sewer in a part of Foxhall avenue, Flatbush avenue and Tietjen avenue, and a sewer in Reynolds street.

Two Sewers Completed.

Superintendent Van Keuren reported that the sewer in Progress street had been completed at a cost of $886.95 and the sewer in Josephine avenue at a cost of $763.51. The common council will be notified to that effect so that the proper sewer assessments may be ordered laid by the city assessor.

Water on Mountain View Avenue.

Luther S. Decker appeared regarding Mountain View avenue and said that the water board had agreed to extend the water main there provided the city graded the street.

According to City Engineer Hallihan it would be cheaper for the water board to lay the pipe before the street is graded, and the board will inform the water board that it can lay the water main, after which the street will be graded.

Hudson Street Sewer.

Two residents of Hudson street appeared and called attention to the need of repairs to the street. They also wanted to know what had become of the proposed sewer in that street.

It was brought out that about seven years ago the board took up the matter and at that time the estimated cost of constructing the sewer was about $30,000. It would cost much more than that at present.

After some discussion the matter was referred to the city engineer and superintendent to go over the matter and estimate the cost of constructing the sewer, and then if the residents on that street desired it built the board would prepare an ordinance. The question of constructing cesspools if a sewer should prove prohibitive was also discussed and left to the superintendent to consider the feasibility of having them constructed.

Establish Grade on Gage Street.

The city engineer was directed to establish the curb line on Gage street so that the property owners could ascertain where the curb was to be set.

Approves of Kyrock.

The Rev. Robert A. Greenwell, a member of the board, has been in Nashville, Tenn., investigating roads built of Kyrock there, and is very much in favor of using that material altogether for road construction here. It was found that when the Kyrock was laid, for the first three or four months it would be torn up by horses' hoofs but it soon was ironed out and would last for years without a cent for maintenance being expended on the road. Mr. Greenwell had viewed Kyrock roads that had been down for ten years and were as good as when first laid.

The board, which had countermanded an order for more Kyrock, rescinded its previous action and directed the full amount of Kyrock previously ordered to be shipped. It will be used on Greenkill avenue and other streets.

Broadway Street Signs.

The board ordered 47 street signs, which will be placed on Broadway, at a cost of $11.95 each from the Universal Road Machinery Company. They are known as two way signs and will have a white background with black letters.

To Oil Wilbur Avenue.

The board instructed Superintendent Van Keuren to oil Wilbur avenue and then topdress it with screenings in order to save the road which was recently constructed and which was said to be going to pieces in spots.

Bills and claims were read and audited and the board then adjourned.

Maine Gets Quake And Cloudburst

Famous Potato Belt of East Shaken Up and Then Deluged—Single Track Railroad Blocked as Loosened Earth Is Washed Into Passes.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Houlton, Maine, July 1.—Aroostook county, the famous potato belt of the East, was visited by an earthquake and cloudburst today.

Washouts on the Bangor and Aroostook railroad held up the morning mail train.

No lives were reported lost.

With a rumble that shook people in their homes, rocked buildings and smashed dishes and windows, the quake rocked the southern end of this county, which has an area of square miles as large as the entire state of Massachusetts.

The earth shock had no sooner passed than black clouds rolled up from the west and rain fell in torrents.

Homes, whose windows had been broken by the quake, were flooded by the driving rain.

During the cloudburst several trees in the center of the town were uprooted by the heavy wind.

The line of the Bangor and Aroostook railroad, which operates from Bangor to Fort Kent, on the farthest tip of the United States, was hard hit by washouts, which followed the quake and cloudbursts.

Earth of high banks on railroad passes, loosened by the quake, was washed on to the tracks in the cloudburst.

The railroad line was blocked in several places. It is a single track road and only one morning passenger and mail train is operated over the line. This train was held between Houlton and Presque Isle by the washouts. All freight trains, including the potato trains, were held up.

Governors of visiting states attending the governors' conference at Poland Springs were due here on a special train late today. They were to view the great Maine woods en route to look over the vast potato farms of this county. The special was not due to leave Bangor until this afternoon, however, and the governors were not caught in the cloudburst.

ITALY WILL NOT RETURN TO GOLD STANDARD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, July 1.—Italy has no intention of following the lead of England in returning to a gold standard.

Premier Mussolini made this clear in a strong denial today of rumors that the government would introduce gold lire and backed his statement with a threat to prosecute those who were spreading the rumors. The reports had caused considerable uneasiness among Italian industrialists.

Gold purchases by Italian financiers in the American market supported the reports, but it was denied the recent $2,000,000 purchase of bullion was for the government.

"HAIL, SMILING MORN" HAD DOUBLE MEANING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 1.—"Hail, Smiling Morn," was sung lustily by happy Laborites when dawn and adjournment of the House of Commons came simultaneously today after an all night attack of the left wing on the government's measures for workers' relief.

Ramsey MacDonald, former premier, led the Laborites in the assault, which finally forced the government to accept one amendment to Winston Churchill's pension scheme. It was the first concession the government made to the Laborites.

Hence the jubilant song.

President Again At Swampscott

Resumes Ordinary Routine Which Must Receive Attention Even in Vacation Time—Enheartened by Father's Condition.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Swampscott, Mass., July 1.—Back at the summer White House here, after a dramatic race into the Green Mountains of Vermont, where his aged father lay at the point of death, President Coolidge today looked forward hopefully to an uninterrupted resumption of his vacation plans.

The ordinary routine, involving disposition of official business, via Washington and temporary executive offices at Lynn and White Court, were entered into as usual.

Secretary to the President Saunders laid before the president a mass of reports and papers that had accumulated during the three days in Vermont and Erwin Geisser, personal stenographer, jouurneyed over to Swampscott to take dictation.

Mr. Coolidge is hopeful that no further trip to the old family homestead at Plymouht will be necessary until late in the summer when he originally had planned to visit there for ten days or two weeks.

The truly remarkable recovery of his father, Colonel John Coolidge, from the serious illness that developed last week has enheartened him greatly.

Colonel Coolidge is 80 years old, however; his heart is weak and he had just undergone a serious bladder operation.

Major James F. Coupal, the president's personal physician, remains behind at Plymouth and is reporting regularly to Swampscott.

Dr. Arthur L. Chute, Boston specialist, is scheduled to return to the bedside Thursday for an additional diagnosis to determine whether a second operation must be performed.

The president is holding himself in readiness to return to his beyhood home at once if necessary.

Col. Coolidge Improves.

Plymouth, Vermont, July 1.—Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the president, who has been seriously sick, continued to improve today.

John Coolidge, son of the president, was with his grandfather today.

Work of shingling the old Coolidge farm house went forward at the request of the colonel.

Husbands Must Support Wives

Everett Ballard and Arthur Beesmer Must Contribute $10 Weekly, and Sam Cook, a Negro, $8 Per Week, Toward Support of Their Wives.

It was husbands' day in police court today when three erring males who had neglected to provide for the support of their wives faced Judge Harry E. Schirick.

Everett Ballard of Elmendorf street and Arthur Beesmer of East Union street were informed by the court that they must contribute $10 a week each toward the support of their families, to which they agreed.

Sam Cook, a negro of Steep Rocks, arrested for non-support on complaint of his wife, was directed to pay $8 per week.

Thomas Conlon, 139 Chambers street; Stephen Genther, 5 Hone street; Joseph Coughlin, 2 Post street; Jerome Sauer, 235 Hasbrouck avenue; and Henry Kiernan, 12 West Union street, arrested on a charge of breaking milk bottles and throwing the pieces of glass in the road on Mill street, were given a lecture, and owing to their youth were discharged with a warning that they would be more severely dealth with in the future.

Pair Held in $10,000 Bail

Henry Golden and John Ohnessen, two of the men arrested earlier in the week by the police on a charge of attempting to break into Rafolowsky's clothing store on central Broadway, were arraigned before Judge Schirick in police court today on a charge of burglary in the first degree and were held under $10,000 bail each for a further examination. The police believe the pair are members of the gang who recently robbed the Kunst clothing store on lower Broadway.

FRANCE STILL STUDYING AMERICA DEBT PROBLEM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, July 1.—The French foreign office today denied, as premature, the accuracy of statements in French newspapers that M. Daeschner, French ambassador to the United States, will be instructed to announce his government's readiness to sign a debt settlement through the commission shortly to be sent to Washington.

"Such statements in the Paris morning press are premature," said an official at the foreign office. "M. Briand, Caillaux and Painleve are studying the American debt problem yet no decision has yet been reached."

Board Approves Chandler Plan For Parking

Board of Public Works Adopt His Recommendations and Ordinance Covering Report Will Be Drafted—Commissioner Chandler Had Made Study of Situation.

Following the public hearing with those interested in the parking situation in Kingston and especially in the uptown business section, which was held recently by the board of public works and a number of uptown business men, Commissioner George F. Chandler was appointed a committee of one by the board to investigate the auto parking situation throughout the city and report later.

At the meeting of the board held Tuesday evening at the city hall Commissioner Chandler submitted the following report and recommendations and urged they be drafted in the form of an ordinance. The board unanimously approved the Chandler plan and directed Corporation Counsel Jenkins to draft an ordinance covering the points outlined in the report and submit it to the board for adoption at the next meeting.

The Chandler Plan.

The Chandler plan, which he said was approved by the chief of police and which could be enforced by the police, follows:

Attention is also called to the two free public parking grounds,—one at John and Crown streets, and the new one back of the Rose-Gorman-Rose store.

GERMAN PRESS RESENTS AVIATION RESTRICTIONS.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, July 1.—Hot resentment at the demand of the council of ambassadors for restriction of German commercial aviation just as it was getting on the wing, was unanimous in the German press today.

The council's note was termed "a document of unbroken war spirit, an instrument of the most brutal imperialism of the victorious Allies." It was declared "unacceptable, unfulfillable and unlikely to foster the peaceful spirit in which Germany proposed the security pact."

Santa Barbara Cheerful Despite Gigantic Loss

Nation Wide Response to Stricken City's Appeal for $2,000,000 for Immediate Relief—City Clearing House Association Shoulders Task of Obtaining $20,000,000 to Rebuilt —Believe Danger Past.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 1.—A small death toll and a gigantic property loss.

That was the summary of the situation today following careful checking 48 hours after the terrific earth shocks rocked this ancient city.

This morning for the first time it was definitely believed the toll of dead would not exceed a score.

Thirteen persons known dead, five additional missing and believed killed and 41 injured made up the casualty list early today.

Tremors have entirely ceased and no shocks of any strength have been felt for 24 hours.

Believe Danger Is Past.

"We feel the danger of damage from further tremors is past," Mayor C. M. Andera said today. "There have been no shocks since yesterday morning."

The day was cloudy and a light rain fell this morning.

Fears of a flood in the event of a heavy rain were dissipated when officials announced drain and storm sewers were undamaged and surplus waters could be handled.

The property damage was regarded by many investigators as possibly greater than previously estimated. It may reach the fearful figure of $35,000,000, although city officials of Santa Barbara declared they hoped it would come under the $10,000,000 mark.

Two More Bodies Recovered.

The bodies recovered today were those of R. M. Litchfield, 28, of San Luis Obispo, California resident, whose crushed body was beneath an automobile wrecked in a fall of rock and bricks on State street, the city's main avenue, and Merced Leon, 43, Mexican laborer. Leon was killed when a rear wall of the Central Hotel fell and crushed him.

San Marco Janitor Missing.

In addition to the recovery of these bodies, the bodies of S. Mestiere, also known as Chappo Maestre, janitor in the wrecked San Marco building, is expected to be dug up today. The janitor was sen in the building a few minutes before the terrific quake Monday morning. Nothing has ben heard of him since the body searchers listed him as dead. Three others believed dead were a Mrs. Kutex, her one year old baby, and William Temple, a janitor in the San Marco building. Mrs. Kutex and her child entered the building a few minutes before it was demolished, investigators said. They have been missing since the quake.

Hundreds Passed Body.

Discovery of Litchfield's body in the street under the automobile was made after hundreds had passed within a few feet. For two days guards had maintained vigil almost beside the body and many had sought a moment's rest on the side of the automobile under which he was buried.

Litchfield was an Associated Oil Company employe.

Bandits Form New Menace.

While reconstruction work was rushed today Santa Barbara faced a new menace.

Hundreds of looters, thugs and bandits were reported to have invaded the city and were attempting to reap rich profits in the damaged sections of the city. Despite careful patrolling the marauders were said to have broken through the police lines around the city and to have started looting.

The thugs, according to police, came here from Los Angeles, San Francisco and othr coast cities, following reports that jewels, money and costly store stocks filled the brick strewn streets.

Ready For Looters.

While wholesale looting has not been reported, should the situation become worse in this respect, it was expected actual martial law would be declared. Semi-martial law with city and military authorities cooperating has been in effect since a few hours after the disaster and declaration of martial law in the fullest extent may follow today.

Four companies of marines from Fort Mac Arthur, Los Angeles, were scheduled to arrive here today and will relieve Los Angeles policemen rushed here for duty.

Slight Damage in Nearby Section.

Hundreds of residents of the city were relieved this morning when telephone communication was made with nearby Santa Ynez Valley and it was learned the earthquake had done only small damage in that section.

The Santa Ynez valley is an isolated section and since Monday rumors have been circulated that great damage had been done there.

Refreshed after their first sleep in many terror filled hours, thousands of Santa Barbara's residents plunged into the huge task of reconstruction.

Business Begins to Resume.

Business houses were opened in the re-districted area where the big penalty was paid by buildings, and other sections.

The city's banks opened in a combined temporary institution. Huge gangs of men cleared the cracked streets of debris and others worked in the ruins in a new search for the dead.

The Van Ness, where two unidentified men were reported killed, and other hotels and wrecked structures were searched. Three others are missing and believed dead.

Cheerfully Plan to Rebuild.

Undaunted, Santa Barbarans went resolutely and cheerfully today about the task of building a greater city on the ruins of the old.

Plans to relieve the suffering community financially were moving swiftly.

$22,000,000 the Goal.

A total of $22,000,000 is the goal of the relief workers.

The Santa Barbara Clearing House Association has shouldered the task of obtaining $20,000,000 to rebuild the city. Plans for the gigantic fund will be completed today.

Nation wide response came this morning to the city's request for $2,000,000 for immediate relief.

San Francisco gave $50,000, Los Angeles $10,000 and promises of aid from cities in every state poured into Santa Barbara.

Trickling into the wrecked city from all parts of the world over wobbly telegraph wires, messages of encouragement cheered the half demolished mission town.

Clearing Streets Slow Work.

It will take some days to clear the streets of wreckage and debris. Thousands labored at it today. Now and then a worker paused in his work to peer under the tangled piles of iron and concrete where may be found other victims of Monday's disaster.

The death lists, however, is not expected to increase materially beyond the thirteen now known to be dead and identified. The score or more of injured will all recover, it was said today.

Railroads Killed 41 Passengers

Decrease in Deaths and Accidents Becomes Impressive When Compared With Lives Lost in Motor Vehicle Accidents—New York Central Lines America's Safest Railroad.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 1.—Although the New York Central Lines carried 10 per cent of all railroad passengers in 1924, not a single passenger was killed in a train accident during the year, according to figures compiled by Charles E. Hill, general safety agent. On other railroads 41 passengers were killed in train accidents in 1924, a decrease of 1 as compared with 1923.

The foregoing relates to train accidents only. In other kinds of accidents, in which the passenger was either wholly or in part to blame, 153 passengers were killed on all the railroads in 1924, an increase of 7 per cent as compared with the preceding pear. Of this total 24 were killed on the New York Central Lines, a decrease of 17 per cent as compared with 1923.

Of employes 1,479 were killed on the railroads of the United States in 1924 as compared with 1,940 in 1923, a decrease of 23.7 per cent. Of this total 149 were killed on the New York Central Lines, as compared with 201 in 1923, a decrease of 25.8 per cent. This decrease in fatal accidents, it will be noted, excels that of the railroads as a whole by 2½ per cent.

Of trespassers on railroads 2,621 were killed on all lines during the year as compared with 2,819 in 1923, a decrease of 7 per cent. Of this total 220 were killed on the New York Central Lines as compared with 244, a decrease of 10 per cent as compared with 7 per cent for the railroads as a whole.

In grade crossing accidents 2,149 were killed on all railroads as compared with 2,268 in 1923, a decrease of 5.2 per cent. Of this total 253 were killed on the New York Central Lines as compared with 283 in 1923, a decrease of 10.6 per cent.

The grand total of fatalities on the railroads of all classes from all causes in 1924 was 6,617 as compared with 7,385 in the preceding year, a decrease of 10.3 per cent. Of this total the number of lives lost on the New York Central Lines in 1924 was 688, as compared with 789 in 1923, a decrease of 12.8 per cent, which is 2½ per cent better showing than that for railroads as a whole.

This marked decrease in railroad accidents is most impressive when compared with the appalling total of 17,345 lives lost in motor vehicle accidents in 1924, which was an average of 47.5 for every day in the year. This was an increase of no less than 5.4 per cent over the total for preceding year, which was 16,452.

The showing becomes still more impressive when it is remembered that two-thirds of all fatalities on railroads embracing trespassers and grade crossing accidents are beyond the direct control of the railroads. All they can do to decrease these classes of accidents is to try to educate the public to keep off railroad tracks and to stop, look and listen before venturing on the tracks at highway crossings.

"I have no doubt," said Mr. Hill, "that the decrease in fatalities to trespassers and at highway crossings can be attributed to the energetic campaigns of education conducted by the railroads. You will notice that the decrease in accidents to employes is much greater than the decrease in accidents at crossings and to trespassers. This is because the railroads are in a much better position to reach their employes with safety propaganda than the public at large. The New York Central Lines are making a very special effort to reach both employes and the public along the way with safety propaganda in a great variety of ways, such as lectures, safety rallies, posters, motion pictures, safety contests, advertisements, distribution of printed matter and so on. The figures I have given show how successful these efforts have been."

Woman Famous for Gift of Clairvoyancy

Mary Sprouse was one of the most remarkable characters, and was known throughout the United States during the early part of the Nineteenth century. She was born in Albermarle county, Virginia, in 1789, and at a very early age developed the gift of clairvoyancy.

Her gift first attracted attention when the "guessing games" of her fellow pupils in the little country schoolhouse were set to naught. As she grew into young maidenhood this gift developed without any special effort on her part, and soon her fame spread throughout the surrounding territory and then throughout the country. It is greatly to her credit that she never accepted any fees for performing her feats of clairvoyancy and she never went into the business of forecasting the future.

On the contrary, she raised vegetables and poultry and sold these at the market in Charlottesville, making the trip on foot daily. In fact, she continued her marketing until the day before she died, May 7, 1838, at the age of ninety-nine years.—Chicago Journal.

Raised a Little Doubt

The manager of the Doesup laundry had advertised for a man. Early next morning, a mild-eyed young chap appeared, and referred to the advertisement. "You think you can fill the bill, do you?" asked the proprietor. "I dunno, boss. I've druv a laundry wagon, but I never druv one o' them other things." "What other things?" And the applicant handed him a clipping of the ad, which read: "Wanted—a man to drive laundry wagon and solicit."

Record-Breaking Automobile Traffic Anticipated Over Week End—Motorists Warned by A. A. A. to "Play Safe."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., July 1.—In anticipation of a record-breaking amount of traffic and travel by automobile over Independence Day by reason of the holiday coming in combination with the week-end, the American Automobile Association has broadcast a national warning urging all motorists to play safe and to take every precaution to prevent accidents.

The warning to motorists was issued under the signature of Thomas P. Henry, president of the association. He pointed out that July 4 should afford an opportunity for drivers to demonstrate in a concrete way their interest in public safety.

"With business in many places shut down from Friday night until Monday morning," said Mr. Henry, "the motorist is offered an excellent opportunity to put his car to the greatest use as a means of recreation but from the national standpoint it is of greater importance that there be a minimum of needless accidents and mishaps."

He urged all motorists to follow as far as possible the following rules and courtesies of the road:

"Remember that thousands of drivers are on their first tour and make allowance for their shortcomings.

"Start early if you must reach your destination at a certain hour, as otherwise the temptation to fast driving is very great.

"Keep to your own side of the road, as the other side belongs to the other fellow.

"Horn at the top of hills and at all turns in the road where vision is obstructed.

"Turn into a side road when making roadside repairs and don't park on the travelled portion of rural highways.

"Familiarize yourself with the traffic regulations in the cities and towns you plan to pass through and cooperate in every way with the traffic officer."

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, July 1.—The annual picnic of Trinity Sunday School was held in Spaulding's Grove on Saturday afternoon, June 27. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by all. Numerous races, jumping contests, etc. were among the sports enjoyed. The prizes were presented by Mrs. Spaulding. There was also a very interesting ball game played during the afternoon, the "men" of Trinity parish playing the Trinity Boy Scouts. The game ended with a score of 27-11, in favor of the Boy Scouts. The Scout team was presented with a fine silver cup for their fine work. Last came the refreshments which were furnished in abundance, and heartily enjoyed by all present. The afternoon was one long to be remembered by all.

Trinity Sunday School will be closed for the months of July and August.

The operetta "Yokohama Maid," which was presented in Trinity parish on Friday night was a decided success. All hope to have it repeated in the near future.

Week-End Outfit in One Suitcase

Fewer Costumes Are Needed for Milady's Short Sojourn.

The conquering heroine of the pre-sports era was an earnest believer in the strength of numbers and her week-end sallies into strange countries were never ventured without the accompaniment of a wardrobe that was as extensive as it was pretentious. Those were the days, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, when quantity was the measure of smartness and when no occasion was too trivial to demand a change of costume. Starting with the morning frock, a summer's day which did not witness at least four distinct costumes was counted among the lost, and the enterprising demoiselle who could improve upon that number was at once the envy of her sisters and the glowing light of social gatherings. Manifestly, it was impossible to pack the necessary wardrobe within the limited confines of a single suitcase, and the pleasure-bent week-ender was compelled to travel, laden heavily with luggage or else run the risk of being occasionally out of the picture.

Those unscientific times are past, due partly to the comparative unconventionality of the summer mode, partly to a more enlightened attitude on the part of the gentle traveler, and partly to the general vogue of sports-wear. Fashion no longer contents itself with seasonal changes—it is continually undergoing minute evolutions and the hallmark of haute chic demands small monthly wardrobe changes instead of the voluminous semi-annual acquisitions that characterized the past. The modern Parisienne does not burden herself with many clothes at a time—her annual number of frocks is, perhaps, greater than ever before, but they are added at diverse periods as the occasion demands, and as they are added, other costumes are either discarded or revamped to coincide with the smartest and latest dicta of the mode.

Wardrobe Should Fit Suitcase.

The result is a wardrobe which is always chic and never cumbersome and which is comfortably sufficient unto the three days of the sportive week-ender. Indeed, the greatest boon to the modern week-end habit has been the general simplification of fashion. You simply cannot pack frills and furbelows into a suitcase. If you appear with a wardrobe trunk or a plurality of suitcases your hostess immediately becomes apprehensive and you can hardly blame her. Obviously, then, the ideal week-end wardrobe must be modified to suit a single suitcase and the present status of the mode makes that task no longer a problem.

Apparently the dressmakers were thinking of the feminine week-ender when they evolved those delectable jumper suits that are the prop of every smart woman's existence nowadays. Whether it is made of kasha, crepe de chine or foulard, the jumper frock is the easiest garment to fold that has appeared on the modern horizon. Those crease less readily than cotton and they shake out into charming folds as soon as they are hung up in a roomy cupboard.

After games the most usual occupation is bridge, and for this you will require a change. But let it be a change into a frock that, but for its color and material, might almost be worn for tennis or golf itself. The smartest clothes of the present season all have that sports allure. Even your dinner dress should have such a simple cut that if you put it on in the daytime nothing could be easier than an impromptu game, quite possible in its straightline simplicity.

A charming idea for the bridge frock is the new jabot idea. It is an excellent suggestion, for there should be something reminiscent of the jabot in your week-end case—it is so typical of the present season's tendencies. It can be carried out in georgette crepe or chiffon and there is no need to adhere severely to plain material. The wild riots of flowers that are scattered over a beige or black ground are a charming feature of summer chiffons. They have this additional advantage—if your rubber is prolonged until the dinner gong sounds, you may appear dressed, fresh, ready for dinner and even the dance following without looking very much as if you had kept on your afternoon frock, for with chiffon it is difficult to say where the afternoon ends and the evening begins.

Ensemble of Floral Print, Suitable for Week-End Wear.

When you intend to include a really formal evening affair during your week-end visit, put in a straight-fringed frock.

You might include a little shawl to throw over the shoulders—it is a real boon on those delightful summer nights when one feels tempted to stroll in the garden between dances. Paris insists on some dainty accessory on these occasions—not from a practical point of view, but because it adds a balancing feminine triviality to the slender lines of the July evening frocks.

Easily Packed Incidentals.

It is advisable to reduce shoes and other accessories to a minimum when you are paying a week-end visit. Keep a small extra bag for your shoes, and you can also use it for last minute remembrances, for even the most methodical of us invariably leave out something of which we think frantically when straps are fastened and keys put into the handbag. Often enough it is just the pair of shoes that goes with the particular frock around which the week-end wardrobe is constructed. Fashion has been liberal in late years by sanctioning gold, silver or blond satin shoes to be worn with every kind of evening gown. Now the mode is changing and the slipper should match the frock. This is an additional complication, but it is essential in a surrounding which places a premium on smart clothes. In less formal places you may choose a pair of blond satin shoes and wear them with your bridge frock as well as in the evening.

Above all other things, remember that costumes worn in Rome should always be Roman. The habit of swimming upstream has no place in modern fashions and it is particularly inappropriate in the short-visiting week-ender. If you are going to visit at some mountain resort which prides itself on a certain lack of convention, leave that Patou robe du soir at home and forget that very Parisian chapeau by Lewis. And conversely, if your journey's end be at some watering place where fashion is the alpha and omega, don't attempt to convert the frivolous populace by wearing clothes that are plain and commonplace. The mode has places for its missionaries, but the week-end habitat is not one of them.

sum of the mode. Even its pleats can be coaxed to lie flat, and it is an excellent plan to pin them into place if the material of the dress is not too flimsy, always taking care to choose fine steel dressmaking pins and not the clumsy white wire variety.

For Golf, Tennis and Bridge.

The nature of the jumper frock will vary according to the type of place in which you are going to spend your week-end. If you expect to stay in an atmosphere of niblicks and mashies, naturally there should be a corresponding atmosphere of woolen and fine jumper cloth about the garments you take with you. If tennis is included in the program, a few one-piece white crepe de chine frocks will answer the requirements. These crease less readily than cotton and they shake out into charming folds as soon as they are hung up in a roomy cupboard.

Now in Tweeds

The Scotch tweed manufacturers are shading the colors of their materials. This is an innovation, for tweeds heretofore have been of the same color from side to side. One long coat brought from London is of shaded tweed deepening from a light fawn at the top to cinnamon and then to a deep brown at the border.

SELLS HEART FOR $5,000 TO SAVE SISTER'S LIFE

Advertised for Husband Because She Didn't Know How Else to Get Money.

Indianapolis.—Down in sun-parched Arizona, fighting a battle with that dread disease, tuberculosis, is a young woman, Miss Martha Bailey by name, who actually beams with joy when you ask her about her family and she starts telling you about her sister, Amelia, now Mrs. Eugene Ellsworth of Indianapolis.

For it was Amelia who gave her a chance to win back health. And Amelia did it by selling herself to a man who had $5,000 that he was willing to pay for a good-looking wife who could cook.

Worked as Stenographer.

Amelia was working in Indianapolis as a stenographer when word came from her home back in Johnson county, Indiana, that Martha had been stricken with the white plague and should be sent to Arizona.

Responses to the Appeal Were Numerous.

The seventeen-year-old stenographer had a few dollars saved up and couldn't for the life of her think how she could help. Then a boy friend from her home town suggested that she marry a man with money. But Amelia didn't know any men who had money.

Put Ad on Poster.

The friend suggested she advertise. Newspapers wouldn't accept the ad. Then the friend said she should design a poster and he would put it up in the Indianapolis Pen and Brush club, where he worked.

Responses to the appeal for a husband with $5,000 were immediate and numerous. The letter from Eugene Ellsworth, a young business man, stirred Amelia strangely and she invited him to call. He did, fell in love with the girl and married her. Now they are happy and Martha is in Arizona fighting for her health.

Blinded by Wife, Man Pleads for Her in Court

New York.—Louise Keyes, colored Jamaica, charged with blinding her husband, John, was released from custody in Jamaica court after the husband, who will be blind for life, pleaded with Magistrate Doyle to free her.

Mrs. Keyes, during a quarrel with her husband March 22, threw lye into his eyes. He was rushed to Kings County hospital, and on being released went to court to defend his wife, who had been held in Queens County jail awaiting the outcome of his injuries.

Mrs. Keyes told Magistrate Doyle she would care for her husband as long as she lived. Keyes interrupted her to say he would not be a burden to anyone; that other blind persons make their own living and he could learn to do so. He pleaded with the magistrate to have mercy on his wife, as he knew she was sorry and the quarrel was all his fault.

After lecturing the wife, the magistrate told her to take her husband home and care for him.

The couple kissed, and then Mrs. Keyes led the way to the court door and out into the open.

Ima Rose Bush Only One of Many Queer Names

Columbus, Ohio.—I. C. Plummer, chief of the state bureau of vital statistics, has a hobby of making a note of unusual names appearing on the thousands of reports that come into his office from all over the state.

Fourth Liberty Loan was the name on one birth certificate recently received by him.

Other names of which he has made a note include:

Minnie B. Swift, Frank Delay, Iona Carr, Iona Ford, Ima Rose Bush and Liberty Bell.

Triplets were named Margaret Progress, Marjorie Aid and Martha Parity.

Ima and Ezra Case and Frosty Icy and Snowy Lane were other names.

Mr. Plummer has received mail addressed to the Bureau of Idle Statistics.

Another letter came to the Bureau of Vittle Statistics.

The Eating Question

"It's a giddy whirl, this life. People eat animals, animals eat smaller animals, smaller animals eat vegetables, vegetables eat animalcules, animalcules eat bacilli, bacilli eat microbes and microbes eat us. The cannibal takes the short cut."

Chivalry Is Not Dead, It Wins Man Jail Cell

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—Who says chivalry is dead?

Mrs. Mary Brazakas had been arrested by prohibition officials on a charge of bootlegging, and, being unable to furnish bail, was sent to jail. She had told the officers that she was a widow with five children and sold moonshine to support them.

A man appeared at the jail and asked if he would be permitted to take his wife's place as the children needed her. He was questioned and it developed that he was Mrs. Brazakas' husband. He was informed that a place could be found for him, so an information was sworn charging him with moonshining and he occupied a cell adjoining that of his wife.

SWEPT TO SEA ON ARCTIC ICE FLOE

Nurse Is Saved When Reef Stops Floating Ice.

Nome, Alaska.—After narrowly escaping being carried to sea on a cake of ice while mushing around Cape Thompson, far within the Arctic circle on the north coast of Alaska, and experiencing other harrowing adventures on an expedition of mercy, Mrs. G. O. Brady, government nurse, has returned safely to Kotzebue sound, a dispatch relates.

Mrs. Brady started north March 27 from Kotzebue with Superintendent Chance to give medical attention in native villages and schools. Three hours after the departure Chance and Mrs. Brady were overtaken by a blizzard and were forced to take refuge in a native cabin at the mouth of Noatak river after 14 hours of blind driving in a temperature of 30 below zero.

When the storm subsided they continued to Point Hope, 800 miles north of Kotzebue sound.

On the return trip Mrs. Brady was accompanied only by a native musher, as Superintendent Chance had preceded her. Exceptionally high winds wrenched free ice cakes upon which Mrs. Brady and her guide were rounding Cape Thompson, and carried them seaward for more than a mile before a reef stopped them and they could make their way ashore.

New York's Homicides Jump to 387 in Year

New York.—Deaths from homicide in American cities during 1924 reached the highest rate on record, with New York showing a slight increase, although its record is low for cities of more than 500,000 population.

The deaths from homicide in New York, which with the figures on other cities are given in an article by Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician of the Prudential Insurance company of America, published in The Spectator, an insurance journal, are 6.4 per 100,000 of population for 1924, or altogether 387 persons. In 1923 the figures were 5.2 per 100,000.

The average for the 77 cities covered in the survey is 9.9 homicides per 100,000 population, making New York's record 3.5 less than the average for the country.

The records of other large cities are: Philadelphia, 7.6, a decrease of 1.8; Chicago, 17.5, an increase of 3.9; Boston, 5.1, an increase of .8; Pittsburgh, 12.1, a decrease of 1.6; Newark, 6.3, a decrease of 1.0; St. Louis, 21.7, a decrease of 4.4; Cincinnati, 15.3, a decrease of 2.8; San Francisco, 8.0, a decrease of 1.9; Los Angeles, 14.2, an increase of .9.

The highest death by homicide rate recorded is given to Jacksonville, Fla., which had 58.8 per 100,000, but which was a decrease of 2.9 from the year previous. The lowest record went to Concord, N. H.; Malden, Mass.; Newton, Mass., and Lawrence, Mass., which reported no homicides at all during the year.

New York state's record included: Auburn, 2.7; Rochester, 3.3, and Syracuse, 4.3, all decreases.

New Jersey's included: Bayonne, 8.1, increase of 7.9; Camden, 6.8, an increase of 2.9; Elizabeth, 3.7, a decrease of .1; Jersey City, 2.6, an increase of .3; Passaic, 7.2, an increase; Paterson, 2.1, a decrease of 1.5, and Somerville, 5.0, an increase of 4.9.

Admits "Birth" Was Hoax to Make Husband Happy

New York.—Nat Bass, wealthy clothing manufacturer, who for nine months proudly regarded himself as the father of a baby boy, recently was disillusioned. Mrs. Bass has admitted to Assistant District Attorney Pecora that she bought the infant from a baby home for $75 and pretended it was her own son, because her husband longed for an offspring.

The publicity attached to the state's investigation of the infanticium of Mrs. Helen Gelsen-Volk, where 44 children have died since 1918, led Mrs. Bass to confess her hoax. She said she feared she might be called in the investigation. She told her husband first and then Mr. Pecora.

It was at the Gelsen-Volk institution that the baby was placed in bed with her, she said. Her husband was notified that the stork had arrived. Now he refuses to keep the child.

Bottle Manufacture

When a bottle is shaped and drops out of the machine at a dull red heat it is not finished. If allowed to cool in the open air at such a temperature it will break. For this reason the hot bottles are run slowly through an oven called a lehr, where they cool gradually. They are then ready for use.

Curiosities of Hair

Some curiosities anomalies regarding the hair and skin have been noted by Prof. Joseph Barcroft. He tells us that hair is merely skin which has grown in a particular way, hardened, and instead of being rubbed away, as happens with the ordinary surface of the skin, sticks out in tubular form. The pigment which colors the hair is not the same as that which colors the skin, for the skin of an Anglo-Saxon, however black his beard, is not negroid.

40 Legion Towns Go Over Quotas

Campaign for American Legion Endowment Fund Meets Ready Response Throughout New York State—Most Places Reached Goal In One Day.

Forty towns in the state have reported their quotas for the American Legion Endowment Fund filled or over-subscribed, according to a statement issued by Franklin D. Roosevelt, state chairman of the campaign for disabled veterans and war orphans.

"The response to the appeal for aid in caring for war's wreckage, including the gold star orphans, is wonderful," declared Mr. Roosevelt. "In many towns the generosity has been so overwhelming that large oversubscriptions have resulted. The state that gave seven millions of dollars to Europe's war orphans will not forget its own children in need."

Towns "over the top" include Canajoharie, Fort Plain, Massena, Waddington, Afton, Groton, Lyons, Brockport, Sanborn, Greensburg, Bolton, Lake George, Johnstown, Hoosick Falls and Odessa. In Livingston county, most of the towns reached the goal in one day, nearly all of them by a big margin, the total for the county being better than ten thousand dollars Mt Morris, Avon, Dansville, Groveland, Geneseo, Caledonia, Livonia and Lima all reported complete success

In the metropolitan area towns filling their subscriptions are Freeport, Glenwood Landing, Floral Park, Hempstead, Sea Cliff, Long Beach, Greenport, Riverhead, Westhampton Beach, Mattituck, Kings' Park, Amenia, Dover Plains, Middletown, Tuxedo Park and Mt Kisco

New Rochelle, where little crippled Eleanor Ball started the drive with a dollar she had saved for a doll, has more than $12,000 collected Every policeman in the town agreed to contribute and the Elks gave a substantial sum. The "Money Hounds" who put over the Liberty Loan campaigns, are also aiding

Port Chester has raised $2,000 and Tarrytown has $3,500 toward a $5,000 quota All patients in the veterans' hospital at Castle Point have contributed South Glens Falls raised $950 against its quota of $750 The Jane Delano Post of Manhattan, composed of nurses, is ahead of its quota while the Belvidere Brooks Post of the same county turned in more than $1,000 averaging $20 to a member. Robert S Walker of the Air Service Post signed over to the fund his entire Federal compensation amounting to almost $1,000.

In Bayonne, N. J. the high school students abstained from pie one week and raised $4,000 to complete the city's $12,500 quota.

Valuable Lumber In City Forest

Albany Forest Has Quantity of Piles And Cordwood Ready For Cutting—Local Organizations Helped to Plant Trees This Year.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, July 1.—A report on the municipal forest recently established by the city of Albany shows that it contains a considerable quantity of heavy lumber suitable for piles for the construction of docks and piers and upwards of 2,000 cords of wood for fuel. At least 3,500 pitch pine piles 30 feet and upwards in length are available for immediate use and could be taken as thinnings without injury to the forest. With piles worth from 35 cents to 40 cents per running foot, the market value of the piles would be between $40,000 and $50,000 and the local price of wood fuel ranges from $14 to $18 per cord prepared for use. There is a large quantity of inferior hardwood which is fire scarred and crooked and which should be removed for the good of the forest.

A tract of 615 acres on the watershed of Rensselaer lake one of the sources of the city's water supply was set aside as a municipal forest in April 1925. The Conservation Commission furnished 50,000 three year old Scotch pine transplants from its Saratoga nursery and the New York State Forestry Association acting through its secretary J. R. Simmons, undertook the planting of them. Fort Orange Council, Boy Scouts of America, the Kiwanis Club and the Rotary Club cooperated to furnish planting gangs to do the actual work of setting out the young trees This was begun April 14 and completed May 6. The 50,000 trees planted this spring cover about half of the open land of the forest tract.

Following the planting, Secretary Simmons of the New York State Forestry Association made a rough survey of the tract to determine the value of mature pitch pine trees that could be used as piles for the construction of docks and piers and hundreds of cords of fire wood, including grey birch, poplar, pine and mixed hardwood.

The municipal forest is used extensively as a recreation ground and there are a number of fine picnic grounds scattered over it in old pine groves, most of which are remote from the newly planted sections.

THE MISSING TEETH

First there was one tooth missing. Then another.

And then a third.

All these three were missing from Muriel's mouth. They were all missing from the upper row of teeth. Muriel had lost a lower tooth some time before, but another tooth had come now in its place.

But there were three teeth still missing. When Muriel laughed it seemed as though she thought things funnier than ever. It was such a funny laugh when three teeth were missing.

Not only was it a laugh and a grin and a smile, but it was an expression which said:

"My mouth thinks things are funny, too. See my mouth with its three missing teeth laugh!"

If you will look the next time you see a little girl with three missing teeth (if you have that fine opportunity) laughing you will see how much more of a laugh it is than the laugh of anyone else.

Or, if you happen to have three teeth missing at one time yourself, just take a look at yourself in the mirror and you'll laugh to see yourself laugh.

Then, one day, came the signs of a new little tooth where there was a missing one. It was just peeping forth. It looked like a jagged little tooth, but it would be all right when it grew.

Muriel used to put her soft, smooth little pink-red tongue where the tooth was appearing as though to say:

"Hello, tooth, I see you're on your way."

And the tooth would scratch Muriel's tongue ever so slightly and seemed to be saying:

"Yes, here I'm coming along. Do you feel me?"

But only if you looked very closely at Muriel's mouth could you see the new little tooth. You could still see the three missing teeth—or, rather, you could see the missing places where three teeth had been.

And you could just barely see the little new tooth peeping out from its gum home.

It was not a gum home which could be pulled. It was a still, quiet gum home.

One night after Muriel had gone to sleep Peter Gnome came to take a look at her.

You know that Peter Gnome loves children. Years ago there was one naughty little gnome and he caused a great deal of trouble.

Just as at one time there was a naughty member of the Bogey family.

They did such harm, for people went around and said that there was a naughty bogey man who would catch children if they didn't watch out, and that gnomes were up to all sorts of mischief.

There weren't any other naughty bogeys or gnomes and the two of these who were naughty were sorry they had been naughty after they had seen the trouble they caused. From then on every bogey and every gnome promises as soon as it begins to go about that never, never will one of them disgrace the family names again.

And they wouldn't, for they love children, and it hurts them terribly to think that they're punished for the naughty ones of years ago by having people think they're mean and cross too.

Well, Peter Gnome went to take a peep at Muriel when she was fast asleep.

Gently he lifted Muriel's upper lip just a little, and then he smiled at once.

There had been no joke. No one had said anything funny. There had been no laughter.

But even while Muriel was asleep the three missing teeth—or the places where the three teeth had been—grinned in such a funny, funny way that Peter Gnome smiled from one ear to the other. That was something he was only able to do when things were particularly funny. But just before he left he noticed the new little tooth.

"You're almost a joke of a tooth," he said. "But I suppose you will be a real tooth by and by."

Time for Argument

"Now, Charles," said the teacher, "if your father can do a piece of work in one hour and your mother can also do it in one hour, how long would it take both of them to do it?"

"Three hours," answered Charles, "counting the time they would waste in arguing."

And man, she is mine own!
And I as rich in having such a jewel
As twenty seas if all their sands were pearl.

After tasting many essences we find freshness the sweetest of them all.

SOME MORE SANDWICHES

Bread should not be too fresh to cut well; let the slices lie as cut, matching the slices. For a nice sandwich the crusts should be removed and the sandwiches may be shaped after they are prepared. Cream the butter to soften so that it will spread better, then add any filling desired.

Egg Sandwiches.—Chop the whites of hard cooked eggs until fine. Mix the yolks with softened butter or with mayonnaise dressing, add the whites and spread on the buttered bread.

Deviled Ham Sandwiches.—Take one cupful of cold boiled ham chopped fine, rub the yolks of two hard cooked eggs until smooth with three teaspoonfuls of melted butter, mix the ham with a teaspoonful of lemon juice and one-fourth teaspoonful of mustard, season to taste and mix all together. Spread on thin slices of buttered bread.

Cheese Sandwiches.—Grate cheese fine, mix with cream or melted butter, add salt and cayenne, and spread on buttered bread.

Water cress and lettuce are both very good in sandwiches: shred both, mix with mayonnaise dressing and place on buttered bread. Scraped onion for flavor may be added.

Chopped green peppers and onion mixed with mayonnaise makes another appetizing salad.

Sliced tomatoes and cucumbers with a salad dressing are good.

Chopped meat, nuts, with seasonings, make good filling.

Sweet Sandwiches.—Chopped blanched almonds with scraped maple sugar, softened with cream. Marmalade, jelly or preserves, any of which will spread without running. Cottage cheese and chopped preserved cherries.

Anchovy Sandwiches.—Pound to a paste enough anchovies for the desired number of sandwiches. Add lemon juice and a little mayonnaise to soften.

BRAGELONGE.

Agnes de Bragelonge, a French poetess, lived in the 12th century in the reign of Philip Augustus. She was the daughter of the count de Tonnerre, and was married when very young to the count de Flancy, and after his death, to Henri de Crecon, whom she had long loved, and to whom much of her poetry is addressed. The poem of "Gabrielle de Vergy," which is only a romance versified, is attributed to this writer.

JULY.

The first appearance of July in the Roman calendar, was as the fifth month under the name of Quintilis.

It had 26 days in the Alban calendar, but Romulus reduced it to 31 days, and Numa to 30 days. It remained at the latter figure until Julius Caesar, whose birth-month it was, gave it 31 days, taking the added day from February, the poor abused month, which has always been "the goat" of calendar makers. After Caesar's death the name of his natal month was changed to July in his honor. Among the early Saxons the month was known as "Hey Monath" because it was then "they usually mowed and made their hay harvest." The great Charlemagne attempted to change the name to "Hiuemonst," meaning "mowing month" but was only temporarily successful, and for the next 31 days the people of the world will "render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's" by applying his immortal name to the month now beginning.

THE HOME COUNTY MAGAZINE HAS MUCH OF INTEREST.

The July number of The Home County Magazine, completing its third year of publication, is now on sale at the news stands in this city, and the number is one of the most interesting issued in some time. The magazine contains the obituary reprinted from The Freeman of Joseph Drake, editor and publisher, whose death occurred on June 19, in the Kingston City Hospital.

Robert E. Sherwood continues his reminiscences of famous persons, and this month is devoted to an account of Jim Fisk and Pantomime.

An interesting article from the pen of Supreme Court Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck is entitled "Clinton and the Law."

The magazine also devotes space to the County Societies of Albany, Rensselaer, Greene, Dutchess, Orange and Ulster.

William Wait has written another article on "The Valley of the Hudson," which is of much interest.

This month's issue of the magazine was somewhat delayed owing to the illness and death of Mr. Drake, and at his request the issuance of the present number was undertaken by friends.

MACHINE GUNS.

The first rapid fire machine gun, the mitrailleuse, was the invention of a Belgian and was patented in France 65 years ago. Two years later Richard Jordan Gatling, an American inventor, produced the first crude Gatling gun, which, with many subsequent improvements, has been adopted by all the armies of the world, and has long since superseded the mitrailleuse. The latter was still in use, however, at the time of the Franco-Prussian war, and its "dry, shrieking terrible scream" was described by many writers as adding a new horror and destructiveness to war. One can but wonder what they would have written of the awful hell of noise and havoc wrought by the immense and hideously destructive work of the "Big Bethas" and the other 75 mile guns in the World War. However, so expert a witness as Gen. Robert Lee Bullard alludes to the machine gun as the deadliest weapon of the Great War—and the mitrailleuse and the Gatling were its parents, so to speak.

GLENS FALLS ROTARY TO PLANT FOREST.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, July 1.—The board of directors of the Glens Falls Rotary Club has voted to accept the offer of 20 acres of land just outside the city made by Elmer West, and will plant a Rotary Club forest thereon.

The planting of the forest, which will require 20,000 trees, has been placed in the hands of the club's committee on public affairs and Secretary Russell M. Carson, of the club, has communicated with the conservation commission, which will supply the trees.

Between now and fall, the conservation commission will go over the land to determine the kind of trees best suited to the soil so that the order for trees can be placed in time for the fall planting.

"Arms—or habit?"

Sitting in a shoe store trying to remember which sock has a hole in it is worse than trying to solve a cross-word puzzle.

There may be a lot of truth in the old axiom that there are a lot of good fish in the sea, but our observation has been that the big ones are too wise to bite.

Village Had to Go

The picturesque village of Mardale Green, near Haweswater, England, with its famous old hostelry, the Dun Bull, and the hillside lands, where many a sporting meeting has been held, will shortly be submerged, for it is the intention of the Manchester city council to build a huge reservoir in that district. The quaint old village church, however, will be rebuilt on higher land, writes a correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The reservoir will be one of the largest in England and will involve the building of an aqueduct 84 miles long. It will provide storage for 20,000,000,000 gallons, will spread over 1,000 acres and will take ten years to complete at a cost of $50,000,000.

PADRE'S HAT IS FOUND IN "LOST" MEXICAN GOLD MINE

Famous Old Cockroach Workings Rediscovered After Being Hidden More Than Century.

Yago, Nayarit, Mexico.—In the famous old Cucaracha (Cockroach) mine, near here, recently rediscovered after being hidden for a century and a quarter, miners are bringing up evidence of the Spanish padres who once owned these approaches to rich veins of gold.

One of the discoveries was a large felt hat, in a remarkable state of preservation. It resembles pictures of the headgear worn by Friar Tuck of nursery fable fame. It has a very broad and floppy brim and was made of a fine grade of thick hair felt, colored brown. Despite its burial for more than 125 years its fibers still are strong and appear equal to any used in modern hats.

The workmen have found also portions of blankets and garments, showing fine material and weaving. The texture of these articles is far superior to the crude Indian and Mexican weave of the period, and this is regarded as certain evidence that the owners were alien conquerors who brought the stuff from Europe.

The padre mine operators were driven out of Mexico about 1812 and never permitted to return. Though the Cockroach mine was well known, its location remained a mystery until, recently, an American mining engineer found it by accident.

Legend tells that the retreating Spaniards buried many bars of pure gold and silver in the vicinity of the Cockroach, and this tradition adds zest to the work of the miners.

Recent Tests Show Mary, Queen of Scots, Innocent

London.—An extraordinary feat in modern criminology was achieved when Ainsworth Mitchell, a prominent English scientist often called in as an expert to help solve murder mysteries, proved by an examination of documents and seals that Mary, Queen of Scots, was innocent of the crime for which she was executed 350 years ago, conspiracy to cause the assassination of Queen Elizabeth.

Mr. Mitchell put all the old records through the most minute laboratory tests and he used the latest methods in comparing hand writing and examining evidence.

He declared when he finished that Mary's innocence was unquestionable. He said William Maitland, Mary's private secretary, was her betrayer. According to Mr. Mitchell, the famous casket of letters which resulted in Mary's trial and beheading were written by Mr. Maitland in a disguised handwriting.

Long Fellows Organize to Lessen Life's Ills

Marshfield, Ore.—Banding to alleviate the woes of tall men, 28 men of Marshfield, who are six feet or more, have formed the Long Fellow Club No. 1.

Among the things which these "higher-ups" hope to accomplish is to start a movement for longer beds in hotels; longer berths in pullman cars and staterooms; longer bathtubs; for awnings on streets which will not cause the downtrodden of this group to dodge continuously while strolling down the street, and for more comfortable car and theater seats.

Ross Company Would Come Here

President of Concern to Hold Another Conference With Chamber of Commerce—Stores Open Friday Night——Coe a State Director—Other C. of C. Activities.

Last week a number of the members of the Chamber of Commerce met with Lieut. Colonel S. Ross Yancey, president of the Ross Chemical Company of Ossining, and listened to the plan he had to offer for the removal of the plant from its present location to Kingston. All who attended the conference were impressed with President Yancey's sincerity and with the evident value of the product produced by the company. The financing of the proposition is very heavy, however, and on this account it is doubtful if this company can be located here, although another conference will be held to consider the matter. The plant employs from 50 to 60 men who work in three shifts of eight hours each as the plant is operated continuously twenty-four hours a day. The company manufactures benzoic acid from which there are about fifteen by-products which are in great demand in the chemical field.

Stores Open Friday Night.

It is understood that all of the stores in Kingston will be open Friday evening on account of Saturday being a holiday.

Burns Agency Reports.

The W. J. Burns Detective Agency has just furnished the Chamber of Commerce with a large number of reports on various stock offerings being made to the public. All citizens are urged to avail themselves of this free service which is rendered by the local Chamber of Commerce. The reports are on file at the office of the Chamber on Broadway, near the city hall.

President Lasher Back.

President Charles A. Lasher of the Chamber of Commerce has returned from St. Paul where he attended the Kiwanis International convention as a delegate from the local Kiwanis Club.

Coe A State Director.

Secretary Louis S. Coe of the Chamber of Commerce attended the annual meeting of the New York State Commercial Organization Secretaries which was held in Schenectady on Friday and Saturday at the new Van Curler Hotel. He states that this hotel, which was financed on a plan similar to that of the new Governor Clinton Hotel on Albany avenue, has been having a splendid patronage since the day it opened, and the truth of that statement was well borne out by the evident business seen while there. They are already planning to enlarge a part of the hotel to properly care for the business.

About forty secretaries from as many different communities were in attendance and the program was interesting and helpful. The officers for the ensuing year are: President, Charles E. Reid, of the Bronx Board of Trade; vice president, William Russell, of the Queens Borough Chamber of Commerce; secretary-treasurer, Grant E. Scott, Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce; directors, L. B. Judson, Yonkers Chamber of Commerce; W. J. Lewis, Staten Island Chamber of Commerce; and Louis S. Coe, Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

At the Friday evening session there was an interesting debate between Wallace A. Brennan of Dunkirk and Louis S. Coe of Kingston on the subject "Why Doesn't the Chamber of Commerce Get More Factories?" which was followed by a round table discussion of the subject. Secretary Coe was also down on the program of the convention for an address at the Saturday session. The Schenectady newspapers devoted considerable space to a report of the convention doings.

Defense Day Program.

A number of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce met with others at the armory last Wednesday to consider plans for the observance of National Defense Day in Kingston on the Fourth of July.

What Daytona Did.

The Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a communication from David Sholtz, president of the Daytona, Florida, Chamber of Commerce, calling attention to the recent membership campaign held there. The goal was 5,000 memberships at $25 each. The final result was 6,200 memberships or $157,500. It was on a one year basis. The drive covered the cities and towns of Daytona, Daytona Beach, Seabreeze, Holly Hill and Port Orange, a community of 15,000 people. Previous to the campaign there was a lack of cooperation among these cities and towns that held back the entire section. Today they are united as one people. The campaign consisted of three weeks of intensive preparation preceding a four day drive. It was conducted by representatives of the American City Bureau.

Fifty Years' Silence Brought to an End

A curious case of the strange workings of what we call the subconscious mind is reported from New York. A man who had been supposed to be both deaf and dumb for 55 years—ever since he was five years old—was put under ether in order to undergo an operation. When he came out of the anesthetic he could both hear and talk, and he did talk fluently and steadily. As a child the man was extremely shy and self-conscious. He learned to talk, but his own voice seemed to frighten him, and he kept silent as much as possible, sometimes for days at a time. When he was five he stopped talking altogether. The doctors say that his vocal organs were perfectly normal, but that he deluded himself into the idea that he could not talk. Later by a similar process of self-hypnotism he became convinced that he could not hear. That he did hear and that his subconscious mind took note of what he heard are evident from his ability to talk when the strange inhibition was removed by the unusual experience of etherization. —Youth's Companion.

Early Code of Laws

When civilization first began in prehistoric times, it is probable that law of some kind also became established. Even as early as 2200 B. C. a code of written laws had been formulated and inscribed on Babylonian stone. The Hammurabi code, now over 4,000 years old, has several features that resemble our modern laws. Discoveries of recent years seem to confirm the idea that Babylonia was the cradle of civilization. Temples dating back to 4500 B. C. have been unearthed.

Fashion Flare Shots

The long reign of the nude stocking is threatened. Women have tired of a sameness which even a multiplicity of shades cannot remedy, and are rewelcoming any opportunity to wear white or gray, even experimenting with the matched hosiery idea. More women are selecting white stockings to wear with white shoes this year than last, when flesh color was voted le dernier cri; and some chose blue or pink or purple to harmonize with the costume or its accessories.

There are also successes reported for certain novelty hose, notably in silk-and-wool or all-wool mixtures, such as one wears to complete the sports costume. For dressier purposes there are other attempts at more novel effects, some involving embroidery which is placed just below the knee, this by no means implying that it is above the line of visibility.

A Polka Dot Chiffon With Puffed Sleeves, Giving a Semi-Formal Appeal.

A bird, or even two, on the limb, is not an extraordinary spectacle, nor is a rose or other flower out of the usual. Cartoonists tell of bells on her garters, instead of on her toes, as in fairy lore, but one thing is certain—if garters do or do not go in for bells, belles go in for garters—very narrow and very highly decorated ones which catch the eye—and hold it.

In these days of daubing a bit of paint on a felt cloche or stenciling a gown or scarf, one must expect to get a bit of it on stockings, handkerchiefs, and even lingerie. Cubist decorative effects can hardly fail to attract attention—certainly they are bold enough, and just now quite the rage.

"THEY ARE WEARING"—Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Touches of frostlike silver lace are apearing frequently on evening gowns. A number of orchid and lilac-tinted dance frocks have appeared within the last week or two. Many chiffon dresses are appearing, with the always popular beaded modes as much in vogue as ever, with a few smart supple taffetas as striking highlights in the costumes of the younger set.

Deep orchid chiffon combined with hydrangea blue tulle was worn recently by a young society matron. The gown was built over a slip of orchid satin, made long-waisted and with a circular skirt, while the chiffon followed the lines of the slip and had the skirt hem finished with matching ribbon quilling. A tunic of hydrangea blue tulle was posed over the chiffon, also cut in circular effect. The low waistline was marked by a twisted girdle of chiffon and tulle.

Orchid and pansy tones were combined in a period frock of taffeta the dress being of orchid taffeta banded with pansy velvet which forms a scarf collar and bands on the skirt.

Another interesting period frock was developed in pink taffeta made with a bouffant scalloped skirt, with the quaint, close bodice cut in an off-the-shoulder neckline and an upstanding flaring collar of cream lace placed at the back. With this were worn long earrings of turquoise and brilliants.

Still another atractive period dress was noted, whose frock of turquoise blue corded silk had its bouffant skirt bordered with several rows of narrow silver lace, while the deep oval neckline was edged with pink and canary chiffon rosebuds.

That Made Difference

Mollie had fibbed, but confessed the fault readily—in fact, as though she were rather proud of the accomplishment. Mollie was a modern child.

"You know, it was very wrong of you to tell auntie that lie," granny told her. "Your conscience must be troubling you."

"Oh, no, it isn't, granny," said Mollie, promptly. "She believed it."

All of Monday's Laundry treated like Fine Fabrics

Nowadays everything you wash is too nice to trust to ordinary laundry soap—your hands, too, deserve to be treated with the utmost kindness . . .

WASHING with ordinary laundry soap is harder on your clothes than the actual wearing of them. And the things you put in the regular weekly laundry are washed so much more often than your finer things! You can't afford to trust them to ordinary bar soap any longer.

Use Lux for the family laundry—magical Lux! See how much longer ginghams keep their fresh, new look. Cuffs wear longer, dimities and muslins don't wear thin and give out so quickly. You get longer service from everything you wash with Lux.

And then—your hands! What a relief Lux is to them after harsh soap. Lux is so kind, so gentle, your hands don't mind Monday a bit now!

You know what big brimming suds—wonderfully cleansing—spring from a tiny bit of Lux. That's why it's actually more economical than bar soap.

NOW LUX TAKES OVER ANOTHER TASK! Now every Monday all your clothes—and your house linens—go into its gentle, magically cleansing suds. How much nicer everything looks after its Lux-washing—how much longer it wears! And Lux is so kind to your hands—like fine toilet soap.

Rid your hands of that in-the-dishpan look!

In the water an hour and a half every day washing the dishes—your poor faithful hands. Spare them that coarsened red look that comes from using strong kitchen soap. Use Lux for washing dishes. Its quick rich suds are every bit as easy on your hands as fine toilet soap. A single teaspoonful is all you need! Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

A little Lux goes so far it's an economy to use it

Be Beautiful at Thirty

"If you're clever, you'll be better looking at thirty than you have ever been before," writes Hazel Rawson Cades in the Woman's Home Companion. "You'll be better dressed, better poised. It's only a question of taking the trouble, and of accustoming yourself to thinking in terms of your own age. It is, I'll admit, more work to be charming at thirty than at eighteen. But it's curious that many women, born to a mediocrity which persisted through their youth, have at thirty found their charm. Because they've seen then the possibilities of their age, and realized that the charm of maturity depends not so much on your natural endowments as on the grooming, grace and mental qualities that you are willing to work for."

Wills Will Be Watched Closely

In Bout With Weinert Which Likely Will Result in Cramping His Style —Wills and Greb Favored With Even Betting on Shade-Slattery Affair.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 1.—Harry Wills is likely to find his style considerably cramped when he steps out tomorrow night at the Polo Grounds against Charley Weinert, according to the official tidings broadcast today. He will not be permitted to fondle Weinert's form with his left hand while he lambasts the gentleman with his right, which is Wills's favorite mode of fistic stuffing.

The first time he does it, he will be told to be good The second time might mean disqualification; the third time will prove it beyond the peradventure of a doubt.

James E. Farley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, made this point clear today in discussing Wills's affectionate tendencies with Billy McCarney, who as manager of Weinert has what might be termed a personal interest in the matter

"You can rest assured that the rules will be observed to the letter," Farley said. "I will appoint a referee who understands the situation perfectly and will see that no advantage of them is taken by either fighter."

Wills has won a lot of his bouts here by the method in question, which involves nothing more intricate than the business of hooking his left glove under an opponent's shoulder, pulling him forward and meeting him in mid air with a right to the body. Fred Fulton, Tut Jackson and others were disposed of in this highly reprehensible manner, in fact, only Firpo escaped. The man with the bearded chest was a bit too rough for that kind of business.

Wills always has maintained that his method falls within the spirit and letter of the code. So has Harry Greb, billed on the same program with Mickey Walker as a co-attraction. The common idea, however, is that neither's style comes within actual legitimacy.

They were public favorites to win their respective matches today, although the real money was being shot on the outcome of the six round preliminary between Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo and Dave Shade of California Last minute money on Shade has backed the odds down to a whisper.

All of the principals will indulge in light exercise today, Wills being scheduled for a seance of weight pulling and shadow boxing; Greb being down for a session of handball because of his necessity for making 160 pounds at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon ,and Walker being due for the customary pre-match exercises at his camp at Summit, N. J He will come up to the scene of the battle tonight.

Indications today were that the crowd would exceed 60,000, the greatest that has viewed a sporting event here since the memorable Dempsey-Firpo shambles.

Girl Scout Camp Opens Monday

Camp Wendy, the Ulster County Girl Scout Camp, opens for the summer on Monday, July 6, with a full registration until the fifth session, starting August 10. There are a few places left for the week of August 10 to 17 and several places left from August 17 to the close of camp on August 24. In accordance with the circular heretofore issued these last two weeks were arranged as one session but Scouts are now being allowed to sign up for either one of these weeks. Registrations are highly satisfactory and vacancies are filling up very fast "First come first served" is the motto of the camp, and Girl Scouts who plan to go there are advised to register now.

Preparing to Install Pump

Superintendent Harrison of the board of water commissioners has a force of men busy making the necessary connections to the water main on Manor avenue at the Silk Mill for the installation of the new electric pump ordered by the water board The pump has been shipped and is expected shortly. By use of this pump the water board believes it will be possible to increase the water pressure on the high points so that those residing there who have difficulty in obtaining water from the faucet may have a supply at all times It will also increase the pressure at the fire hydrants.

The honor of being the first woman to go to congress from this section falls to Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, of this city, widow of the late Congressman John Jacob Rogers.

Complete returns today from the special election in the Fifth Congressional District gave Mrs. Rogers, Republican, 23,614; Former Governor Eugene N. Foss, Democratic, 9,251.

Mrs. Rogers got 72 per cent of all the votes cast, carried every town in the district and received a large proportion of the total vote than her husband did last November.

Advocates Raw Food

Professor Charles Richet, the famous French anatomist, reported to the Academy of Science (Paris) that carnivorous animals such as the dog, cannot live long when their diet is restricted to cooked meat. His experiments show that the same animals thrive and develop great strength when fed with raw meat.

His latest experiments were made on fish fed with meat. The results were the same as with animals. He says he has demonstrated that cooking destroys vitamins and modifies the muscular albumenoids so as to make them difficult to assimilate.

The SANDMAN STORY

MR. HUNGER WOLF

MR. FOX and two of his neighbors were sitting around the place one night in Mr. Fox's kitchen.

Mr. Fox had been sitting quietly listening. Not a word had he spoken for Mr. Fox was lost in thought and you may be certain he was not thinking about anyone else but Mr. Fox.

It had suddenly occurred to him that he had heard his grandfather tell a story about old Mr. Hunger Wolf that always appeared to the wood folk when the winter had been long and cold.

"Yes," spoke up Mr. Fox, "it does seem mighty hard on us folks here in the woods these long cold winters and of course that is the very time that old Mr. Hunger Wolf gets in his work."

"Who?" inquired Mr. Possum and Mr. Coon, their eyes growing large with fright.

"Mr. Hunger Wolf," replied Mr. Fox, gazing into the fire as if he had no idea they were scared. "Did you never hear about him?"

Were Sitting Around in Mr. Fox's Kitchen.

Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum shook their heads and looked around to make sure the window and the door to Mr. Fox's house were securely fastened.

"He is a pretty bad creature to meet," replied Mr. Fox, "worse than any I have ever heard of, but as he never comes around only in the winter time when there has been a long cold spell we have nothing to fear at present.

"We can hide somewhere, where he cannot find us," suggested Mr. Possum.

"That is the worst of old Hunger Wolf," said Mr. Fox. "My grandfather said he could get in anywhere, did not have to go through a doorway; the only way to keep him out is to have plenty of food on hand."

"To feed him?" inquired Mr. Possum.

"No, to feed yourself," answered Mr. Fox. "He never comes near those who eat plenty and keep plump."

The next night as soon as it was dark enough for hunting Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum started out with big bags over their shoulders while Mr. Fox stayed at home to dig a place in his cellar for the winter stores.

When the hunters returned the next morning and looked at the hole Mr. Fox had made Mr. Possum remarked that it was deep enough to hold all three of them and a few others their size.

"That is about what will happen unless you bring in enough food to fill it," said Mr. Fox in a solemn tone of voice. "A full storeroom is all that will keep old Hunger Wolf from the door. But of course you do not have to stay here, Mr. Possum. I am certain that your own soft bed will be far more comfortable than my poor house."

Mr. Possum hastened to say that he was just joking. He knew perfectly well it would take a whole lot of food to keep away Hunger Wolf, and he was willing to do his share of the hunting.

For many nights Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum worked and every morning they returned with full bags and added to their supplies.

At last the deep hole in the cellar was filled with food. "Now we must finish storing wood," said Mr. Fox. "I have a bad spell of rheumatism, I am sorry to say, so you fellows will have to finish bringing it in, but I can manage to hobble about and cook our dinner."

When spring came Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum ran off to their own homes but before they parted at the end of the path in the woods, Mr. Possum said: "It strikes me that Mr. Fox got the best of our winter arrangement and he is by far the fattest of the three."

"Yes," replied Mr. Coon, "he always cooked the meals which he said was the hardest part of the work, but I noticed that he was never hungry when he came to the table. Next winter I shall watch for old Hunger Wolf from a tall tree and not from a home on the ground."

Mr. Fox was laughing to himself as he stretched out in the sun by his door. "Well, I shall have to work all summer, I suppose," he said, "but I lived by my wits this past winter and I am a pretty slick looking animal, which goes to prove that I am a very clever creature, very clever, indeed."

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

BUBBLES AND MONEY

IN THIS country and Canada a common superstition is that bubbles floating on a cup of tea or coffee signifies that money is coming to you. In some sections it is considered necessary to try and take up the bubbles in a spoon; you will have as many dollars as you can catch bubbles. This is a remnant of the ancient magic art of hydromancy, divination by a cup of water as practiced by Joseph in Egypt. See Genesis 44:5. Water was used for divination by the Egyptians because Isis was sometimes regarded as the earth when fecundated by the waters of the Nile and a vessel of water was therefore carried in her processions. In ancient times any troubling of the waters, in a pool or in a cup, was considered of significance. In modern necromancy the coffee cup has succeeded to the divining cup of Joseph and tea and coffee to the fecundating waters borne before Isis. But as of old, the bubbles rising in our divining cup mean something.

But why money? Because the influence of Egyptian mythology upon Roman mythology was strong and though the cult of Isis was but slightly identified with the cult of Juno; yet Isis was the chief of the Egyptian goddesses as Juno was the chief of the Roman goddesses.

So it is the breath of Juno that rises in bubbles in our coffee cups and Juno, under her name of Moneta, means money. Doubtless when the ancient Romans practiced this rite with a cup of water they invoked the goddess.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

MYRA

TAKEN from an evolutionary standpoint, Myra represents the eternal etymological question. It is said to mean "she who weeps," but where it comes from and how it reached its present form is clouded in mystery.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that it comes from the word marah, meaning bitterness, which was then supplied to the bitter gum; myrrh. The same term was used to designate the brackish springs in the desert to which the desolate widow of Bethlehem referred when she cried "Call me not Naomi (pleasant), call me Marah (bitter)."

This is, on the whole, the most satisfactory derivation of Myra, sometimes referred to in the Middle ages as Myrrh of the Sea. Myra was frequently used in the early days of Biblical history and the heritage of sorrow which the name suggests seems generally to have accompanied its progress. It has been a great English favorite and has likewise had widespread vogue in this country, its popularity, curiously enough, being confined largely to the South.

Jet, the emblem of sorrow, is Myra's talisman gem, but by wearing it the ancients believed that she could escape her legacy of tears. It should be worn, however, against the flesh to insure its potency. Tuesday is Myra's lucky day and 7 her lucky number.

SMILES

I ASK not luxuries to please
My taste for social vanities,
Although I frankly do confess
I like them rather more than less.
But luxury of time and space
To do the little deeds of grace
Wherewith to make a brighter day
For fellow traveler on the way,
That is the sort of plenitude
I deem to hold the greater good.

Kellogg Lays Down Law to Italians

Secretary of State Kellogg Tells Italian Ambassador That We Want Payments to Begin at Once—Returns to Report Attitude and Get Instructions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 1.—Members of the World War Funding Commission did their best today not to show too much disappointment over the breaking up of the negotiations with Italy, but it was no secret in official quarters that hopes for a prompt settlement of the two billion dollar Italian debt have been dissipated.

Spokesmen for the commission at the treasury declared progress had been made in the three meetings of the debt negotiations, but the reference was to the fact that Italy had acknowledged her debt and not to any tangible results, as no funding plan was submitted before the conference adjourned until August.

Secretary of State Kellogg had hoped something definite could be accomplished in the preliminary meetings and with this in view he had gone so far as to tell the Italian ambassador the United States expected payments to begin almost immediately and that this government would be opposed to granting an extended moratorium on initial payments. There was a feeling in diplomatic circles that by thus abruptly communicating the administration's attitude to the Italians, to head off proposals for delay, Kellogg probably had precipitated the early adjournment of the first meetings.

The secretary of state is fast losing patience with the big European debtors and has been at no pains to conceal the fact. When he laid down the law to the Italians, who, it has now developed, never had been empowered to conclude a funding agreement, they saw little was being accomplished through the discussion of Italy's financial troubles and promptly decided to halt the negotiations and wait upon instructions from home.

Mario Alberti, who was delegated by Premier Mussolini to assist in presenting the Italian fiscal situation to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and other government officials here, will return to Rome at once to report on the attitude of the American Gevornment and get further instructions.

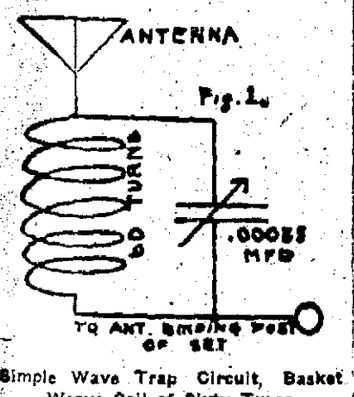
Wave Trap to Get Distant Programs

Coils of Basket-Weave Type Are Well Adapted to Construction.

In these latter days, a radio receiver that will not tune through local broadcasting reasonably well is not all that it should be.

Yet there are many sets quite broad in tuning, and others that, while fairly selective, are found lacking when operated near powerful stations.

In such instances a wave trap affords a simple and quite effective means of tuning out local broadcasting when distant programs are desired.



Simple Wave Trap Circuit, Basket Weave Coil of Sixty Turns.

And, fortunately, coils of basket weave type are well adapted to wave trap construction.

Typical Circuits.

The accompanying illustrations are of conventional wave trap circuits. Those who wish to use the simplest of these (see Fig. 1) will require a basket weave coil of 60 turns (hence the standard loading coil will serve nicely) and a good variable condenser of about .00035 capacity.

It is only a little more difficult to make an inductively coupled wave trap (as shown in Fig 2) by using the same condenser across the secondary of a standard radio frequency coil, which has a primary of six turns and a secondary of 60.

In using the loading coil the taps may be employed or not, as the builder chooses. Slightly better results might be expected if the inductance as well as the capacity in the trapping circuit were variable.

It will be seen that the trap is inserted in the antenna (or ground) circuit of the set in such a manner that incoming signals must pass through the trap in order to reach the receiver.

Methods of Tuning.

The usual procedure is to set the trap condenser at zero (that is, with the movable plates out of mesh) and tune the set to the local broadcasting that is to be eliminated.

Then carefully vary the trap condenser setting until the local station is no longer heard, or is reduced in volume as much as possible. Then retune the receiver to whatever distant programs are desired.

The effectiveness of a wave trap depends upon how well it is made, with what sort of circuit it is operated, and where and how it is used.

It will be found convenient to mount both coil and condenser in a small cabinet, or at least on a panel, with binding posts for connections.

Those who do not wish to construct wave traps will find on the market a number of efficient devices of this sort.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Coil Same as Increasing Length of Your Antenna

Two simple principles applied to the average receiving set will enable the operator to keep in tune with all waves from 200 to 600 meters. If a coil of wire is placed in series with the antenna it has practically the same effect as increasing the length of the antenna, thereby making it possible to pick up higher wave lengths. The larger the coil the greater will be the increase in wave length. If a variable condenser is placed in series with the antenna or ground wire the wave-length range of the set is reduced. The smaller the capacity of the condenser the greater will be the cut in wave length. To place a coil in series with the antenna connect the lead-in wire to one end of the coil and run a wire from the other terminal of the coil to the antenna binding post on the set. A series condenser is connected the same way.

Winding Coils

It is a simple matter to wind a coil with each turn of wire spaced a short distance from the next one. Start the coil with thread and wire, at the same time applying considerably more tension to the wire than when no thread is used. After the coil is wound and the end of the wire fastened, the thread may be unwound. It is much easier if you can persuade a friend to hold a spool of wire in one hand and a spool of thread in the other while you use both hands to turn the coil form.

Will Call a New China Parley

Conference to Revise China's Treaty Relations in an Attempt to Establish Peace, Will be Called by U. S.—European Powers Are Understood to Favor a Conference.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 1.—An international conference to revise China's treaty relations with foreign powers and to make another attempt to establish peace and stability in that war-torn country, will be called soon by the United States.

Announcement was made here today that Secretary of State Kellogg is preparing to carry out the work of the Washington armament conference by issuing an invitation to Great Britain, Japan, France and other nations to join with the United States in extending a helping hand to the Peking government.

It was indicated that the American invitation might be issued unofficially to back up the formal proposal of the Chinese government

Abolition of the extra territorial privileges now enjoyed by foreign powers in China—one of the sore spots which have led to recent anti-foreign outbreaks in Canton, Shanghai and other cities—will be the chief object of the conference.

In signing the China treaty at the Washington conference the powers agreed to give up their territorial rights but at that time China indicated that she was not ready for the withdrawal.

Secretary Kellogg has now been advised, however, by Dr. Alfred Sze, minister of the Peking government here, that China is anxious to have changes made in her treaty regulations and is ready to go ahead with the program outlined here in 1921.

American diplomats in Europe have felt out the other powers on the question of a new China conference and are understood to have reported that there were indications that the time was propitious for the undertaking.

TATTOO MARK A CLUE TO HEADLESS MYSTERY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Wakefield, R. I., July 1.—A tattoo mark, representing a heart enclosing the initials T. L. C., found on the left forearm, today furnished the only clue to the headless mystery of Charlestown Beach.

The headless body of a man was washed upon the beach and brought to Medical Examiner, Dr. John J. Jones here. Police recalled that on the night of May 13th an unidentified man aboard the Bay State steamer Georgian, bound from Province to New York, ran on deck, said good night to the deck watch and leaped over board.

Police believe the man's head was severed by the steamer's propellers and that the body that came ashore at Charlestown Beach is that of the man who committed suicide.

Scientific and Religious 'Het Up'

Test of Tennessee's Anti-Evolution Law Arouses the Deeply Religious and Scientifically Inclined—Prosecutor Receives Offers of Assistance From Many States.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Dayton, Tenn., July 1.—All America is taking sides in the legal test of Tennessee's anti-evolution law, it was revealed today by a synopsis of Dayton's daily mail bag.

From every corner of the nation, the deeply religious are showering letters of encouragement to the state authorities charged with the prosecution of John T. Scopes for alleged violation of the anti-evolution law From virtually the same cities, towns and hamlets the scientifically inclined are pouring a steady stream of letters to hearten the Scopes defense.

Thus far the fundamentalists have led the tide. From north, east, south and west they have sent "bravos" and suggestions of aid to the men charged with upholding the Tennessee law. In the mail of S K. Hicks, special prosecuting attorney, there were letters today from eight states. He has heard from every state since the day he prosecuted Scopes before a justice of the peace court and had the youthful teacher held for formal jury trial.

"The whole nation seems to be coming to our help," said Hicks. "I have received offers of assistance from every state, and it seems, from most every county in the union."

"I am sending you a book," wrote one Bronx, New York volunteer. "It will prove the Bible correct and that Darrow is wrong."

An Arlington Virginian wrote "Evolution will become a national issue greater than the tariff or prohibition. God be with you."

Similar words of encouragement have been received by Walter White, superintendent of the schools in which Scopes taught. A Columbus, Ohio, man wrote White: "The teaching of my grandmother and grandfather was good enough 60 years ago and is good enough for me. May God help you."

In Superintendent White's mail there are also scores of applications for positions as teachers in the Dayton school system. Most of the writers, incidentally want to supplant young Scopes. Today's batch included applications from Virginia, Missouri, New York state and Illinois.

$3,675,000,000 In Sight To Spend

But Government Will Try to Save $400,000,000 for Taxpayers, Enabling Further Tax Reduction—Tax Collections Heavy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 1.—The United States Government went into the new fiscal year today with about $3,675,000,000 in sight to spend during the next 12 months.

Out of that tremendous sum an effort will be made to save from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 under the economy policy enunciated by President Coolidge.

That sum will be available for tax reduction when Cnogress meets in December.

Estimated government costs for the year are $3,375,000,000 including public debt expenses of $1,315,000,000, other fixed charges of $900,000,000, leaving $1,660,000,000 as an objective for the pruning knife.

The Veterans' Bureau, which in the year ending at midnight cost the tax payers about $400,000,000, will continue to be the government's most expensive activity. Next year, however, with closing of vocational training and other current reductions the cost of operating the bureau will begin to decline rapidly.

A preliminary estimate of the war department's cost for the year was $350,600,000 and the navy $326,600,000.

The treasury was getting telegraphic reports from internal revenue collectors today as to collections for June 29 and 30, on which will depend the surplus for the year. Experts were guessing today a surplus from $245,000 000 to $255,000,000 The last exact figure was $250,837,165 for June 27.

Tax collections, to that date were $1,775,430,000 compared to an estimate of $1,660,000,000 with a probable $2,000,000 to be received June 29 and 30.

Customs receipts for the year were approximately $548,000,000, $5,000,000 in excess of the year ending June 30, 1924; miscellaneous internal revenue, $828,500,000 compared to $948,894,000 for the preceding year, bringing total ordinary receipts to about $3,777,290,000 The estimated receipts were $3,601,968,000

During the year the government collected $182,908,520 on foreign debts, most of which was from Great Britain.

Included in the important expenditures was about $380,000,000 interest. $146 250,000 refunds of taxes, $100 000 000 for soldiers adjusted compensation. $307 000,000 for the sinking fund to retire public debts and a $24,000,000 postal deficiency.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 1.—Impelled by aggressive buying, industrial stock prices pushed forward vigorously to high price levels today. The motor and mercantile stocks furthered their robust price gains of Monday and Tuesday, while industrial leaders made a better showing than in any session for a month or more.

The turn of the half year, with the prompt release of about half a billion dollars of reinvestment money ready for the security markets, the strong technical position of the industrial prices and the confident attitude of professional bullish traders, had their effect on stock prices Woolworth and other leading stocks in the mercantile family rushed up buoyantly to higher price levels. Woolworth reaching 162½ for a gain of 11 points from the previous close. United States Rubber reached 56 in heavy trading, an advance of 2½ points for the day and nine points since last Saturday. Goodrich, Fisk and Kelly Springfield maintained their firm and active price trend.

Specialty stocks like Radio Corporation, International Combustion Engineering, Otis Elevator, Robert Reis, Industrial Alcohol Owens Bottle and Universal Pipe sold at the highest price levels of the week. Oil stocks were featureless and only a few of the railroad shares entered into active trading.

Extreme weakness was again apparent in the European exchanges, with Italian lire crashing through to the lowest quotation ever recorded in this market.

Call money rates ruled at five per cent, but funds were in good supply at that rate and no further squeezing of the call market is looked for. Outside markets were slightly reactionary.

Interesting Old Legend

Blondel, a French troubador, attendant and friend of Richard Coeur de Leon, is said to have discovered the prison where Richard was held by singing under the tower a song only he and the king knew.

Salt-Water Fishing

Silk lines are unsuitable for salt-water fishing. Sea water rots silk in a very short time. The best line to use when salt-water angling is the best quality of linen, twisted in either 6, 9, 12 or 15 strands.

Walden Outfit Here Thursday

Walden is sending a team up here Thursday evening to take a crack at the Colonials. This will be the first time that this club has come to Kingston and the local fans will have a new outfit to give the once over. This team will play the Colonials at 6:30.

For the Fourth of July the local management has booked the Haverstraw team for two contests. The first of these twin games will begin at 10:40 and the second contest will be staged in the afternoon at 3:30.

It was planned to have two games with the Middletown Grays on Sunday afternoon but two double battles in a row is a hard schedule for any team, so the first game has been called off which leaves one game with these down-staters to begin at the usual time, 3:30

Colonials Broke Chappie's Streak

Johnson All-Stars Lose Hard Fought Battle To Locals 4 to 3—Paul Kinney and Cooper Pitch Beautifully.

The jinx is broken! And the Kingston Colonial nine is the outfit that did the job. Cooper, twirler for Chappie Johnson's All-Stars, Tuesday night, pitched a wonderful ball game, but the Colonials meant business this time, they were out to include Chappie's club among their list of victims It wound up 4-3, giving the locals the first leg in their revenge on this crack ball club who have made the locals eat the dirt, four consecutive times this season.

It all came about in the Colonials' lucky frame, the eighth inning, when things were looking bad for the locals. Chappie had the Colonials 3-1 in this session and there were two outs when the locals let out and three smackers in a row, bringing in two runs to tie the score Then Chappie's second sackman was kind enough to boot a grounder, which let the winning run in and the locals hung up a glorious ball game

Paul Kinney tossed them over for the Kingstonians, giving the upstaters only five hits and allowing only one man on the first sack through the four balls process Paul sent five Stars back to the bench after taking three whiffs at the ball. Two innings Paul made two strike outs each, and made the fifth one in the last frame when the locals' important task was to keep the upstaters harmless for this final session

The Johnson club pressed Kinney in the third frame for two hits, and their first two markers Kemp got aboard when Kinney was slow in throwing a grounder cross to first Warmack singled, when Kelly let the drive get past him and Kemp scored, besides letting Warmack on third Johnson's safety followed and Warmack crossed for a run Ewing's hit into a double play put an end to the racket and the third out was a toss out from shortstop The third All1Star run crossed in the eighth After two outs, Hobson doubled and then scored on Cooper's single Paul stopped the scoring with a strike out, his second this inning

It was a dull game for the locals until the sixth, when Kelly made a terrific opening First up, Tex thrust one out for a homer, clean over the hat sign. This was the only scoring this frame although after Deegan's toss out, McDermott took a husky slash at the ball for a single but was left stranded on the initial sack.

Then just as Chappie was preparing to broadcast that winning smile in the eighth, after two outs, the locals snatched the ball game from him. Deegan singled McDermott singled. McCue doubled to right field and his two mates scored. Then Mercer hit one straight at the All-Star second baseman who made a stab at the ball, but never captured it and McCue brought across the winning run.

It looked like the battle would change when the up-staters got up their last time following the locals' lucky eighth, for Warmack started off with a single to center field. But the picture soon changed as Paul put three balls where Johnson couldn't find them and the last two out were accomplished when Ewing hit into a double play.

The local trio of Peters, Deegan and McDermott had two double plays to their credit, both being pulled at times most needed. One in the fifth after the All-Stars had scored two runs, which ended the rally and the other in the final frame with one mon on.

DEMPSEY TALKS ABOUT A BOUT NEXT YEAR.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Brighton, England, July 1.—Jack Dempsey declared today he would fight in defense of his heavyweight title at least three times before retiring and that one of the occasions would involve Gene Tunney, white heavyweight who came into recent prominence by his knockout of Tom Gibbons. He made of mention of Harry Wills, whose challenge has forced Dempsey into difficulties with the New York State Athletic Commission

"Tunney is the only man I really want to fight," declared the champion with the utmost candor. "He can have a battle on July 4, 1926, if he wants it. He is the only challenger I figure would draw against me."

Gas Outfit Takes Printers Into Camp 20 to 5—Universal and West Shore Teams Clash Tonight.

Tuesday evening at the Athletic Field the Freeman Publishing Company received a severe trimming in an Industrial Baseball League contest at the hands of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company. The final score was 20 to 5 with the printers on the small end.

Taylor started on the mound for the printers but did not show up in his usual form. He lasted three innings and while in the box allowed the gas eaters fifteen runs and ten hits. The printers in an endeavor to redeem themselves put Huber in command of the situation. Huber proved very successful in his efforts but the lead that the heat makers had gained was too much for him to overcome. Errors on the part of the type throwers were also costly.

Doyle was put in charge of the twirling end for the gas company and showed good form in the box. He allowed the printers but four hits, allowed five men to advance to first base on passes and retired four by the strikeout route.

The gas eaters started things rolling in their favor in the opening inning scoring seven runs. In the second frame two more crossed the rubber In the third and fourth innings four more tallies apiece came in for the heat makers The gas eaters were then held scoreless in the next two frames and in the final inning three men crossed the rubber for tallies

The type throwers were slow in starting and remained scoreless in the two opening innings In the third Slizewski scored the first run of the game for the printers The fourth frame saw two men cross the plate for runs. Work of Lightning

A flash of lightning is merely a large electric spark—a vast multitude of electrons changing position at the same time. When lightning strikes a tree the electrons are moving toward the ground.

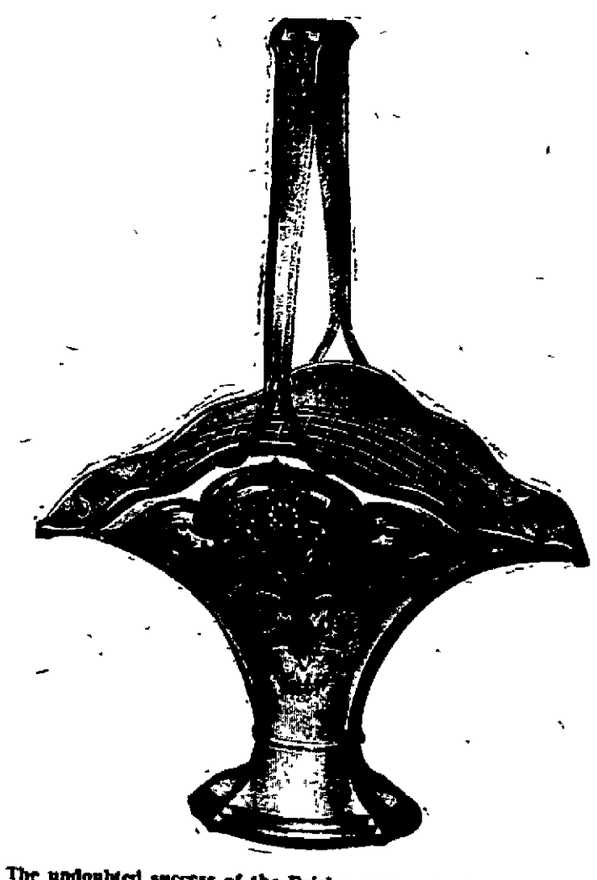
The Paisley Pattern



The undoubted success of the Paisley pattern is due neither to luck nor fad but to the sound principles back of the design and workmanship. The grace of the lines and the beauty of the ornamentation—reminiscent of the old-time Paisley shawls, dear to the hearts of our grandmothers—account in large measure for the reception that has been accorded to this line of high-grade silver-plate. A wide range of pieces, every one of them perfectly serving its appointed purpose, allows a satisfactory selection and makes the choice of a gift an easy matter, whether a complete service or a single piece is desired.

The following articles are made in the Paisley Pattern:

Baskets
Beverage Sets
Bon Bons
Candlesticks
Centerpieces
Child's Cups
Cigarette Set
Coffee Set
Comports
Fruit Baskets
Goblets
Highball Glasses

Tagging Major League Bases

With Walter Johnson giving an epic performance, the Washington Senators moved into first place by presenting the Athletics with a thorough going lambasting, 7 to 0. It was Johnson's 108th shut out and he would have made it a no hit occasion but for scratches by Galloway and French.

The Phils tied the score with a two run rally in the ninth and then beat the Dodgers in the eleventh on Wilson's single. Score 10 to 9.

Kaufmann shut the Pirates right out with three hits, the Cubs winning in the eighth, 1 to 0, when Adams doubled off Meadows and scored Grimm.

The Red Sox had nothing to say for publication against Sam Jones, who held them to four hits while the Yanks clubbed Ehmke for a 3 to 0 decision.

A fine run rally in the sixth staked the Indians to a six to three victory over the Tigers, the latter's pennant rush being halted thereby.

Cooney not only pitched with admirable finesse but his hitting helped the Braves to gain a 3 to 2 verdict over the Giants which kept the latter from moving back into first place.

The White Sox turned on Danforth and Davis in the twelfth and strong armed their way to a 6 to 1 victory over the Browns.
